

Sattelite radio has filled a broadcasting need in the marketplace. Over the air broadcasters failed to keep pace with both technology and progamming, and are now attempting asking the government to protect them from market forces. The FCC should reject NAB's petition 04-160 and let those of us who listen to radio, determine the source and content of the broadcasting we choose.